Important Decision.

Judge Cheney in the case of Jas. P. Winfrey vs. George Russel et al at Reno has given the law on several points of interest to farmers and the legal profession. In substance:

First. The upper owner of land has no right or easement in the land of lower owners. That is the upper owner has no right to turn his waste water on the lower lands to the injury of the lower owner, if he does so the courts will restrain him.

Second. Where several persons by separate acts commit injuries each is liable for his own acts.

Third. For injuries done by percolating water from irrigation ditches in the usual and ordinary course of irrigation there is no remedy.

Fourth. But in case of injury from percolating water from artificial reservoirs or storage water the rule is different. In such cases damage will be awarded and the nuisance abated.

Fifth. The owner of intermediate lands is not liable to lower owners for the injury from surplus water coming from the lands of upper owners and passing over or through the intermediate lands.

If the above rules are observed by farmers trouble will be avoided and lawyers not be over crowded with business on the water question.

The fact that every trade seeker has an advertisement in its columns prove that the people are up with the times and more favorably impresses the stranger into whose hands it chances to fall.

Card From Dr. Guinan.

Carson City, Nevada, May 1st, 1894.

To the County Commissioners of Ormsby county, Dear Sirs:—If you will publish the facts in the case and say that you employed a "surgeon" to extract the bullet from Herb Robinson's knee, today, and that he failed to find it; that you were willing to pay him for his services, but that you are not willing to pay me for mine, I will successfully perform the operation gratuitously. I make this proposition in the interest of humanity. Unless relief is rendered the sufferer soon, he will lose the use of his knee and perhaps his life.

Yours truly, M. D.

A Tragical End.

A lady of Marshall, Cal., by the name of Brown, who is very wealthy but has no brains, received a note through the postoffice a few days ago demanding that she leave $200 at a certain place near her residence or her house would be blown up. Officers were notified and an envelope containing a lot of paper was placed as demanded. At the appointed time a man was seen taking it and was ordered to surrender. He started to run and several shots were fired the fugitive falling dead. He was found to be William Eaton, son of John Eaton, one of the most respected men in the city of Marshall.

NEVADA PASTURAGE.

Low Rates on Stock From California.

The stock owners in the drought-stricken valleys of California are seeking pasturage for their flocks and herds in Nevada and Utah, and it is probable that all the available ranges in Nevada will be occupied this season. The San Francisco Chronicle says: A train of 160 cars of sheep was moved out of the San Joaquin valley yesterday, and for the next few weeks similar trains will follow one another as rapidly as possible.

The lack of rain has dried up the pasturage in the whole of the Salinas valley and on the western side and upper end of the San Joaquin valley. In fact, a line drawn through Monterey due east, would have on the north of it the dried up pasturage lands. This same line continued through Nevada would have to the north of it all the finest pasture in that State and Utah.

No such fine pasture has been enjoyed in Nevada and the Montana territory in years. There is, in fact, much more feed than cattle to consume it. Last year these pasture lay idle for three years ago the fearfully severe winter killed the cattle in thousands and destroyed the pasturage. Now, however, the lands have fully recovered.

In view of the drought in this State the Southern Pacific Company, in order to save the cattle, is carrying them from the San Joaquin and Salinas valleys into Nevada and Utah at a trifle above the actual cost of labor and fuel. Hitherto the rate per carload has been from $90 to $125; now it has been put down from $25 to $60 per car.

There are vast tracts of land which are used for nothing else but pasturage, as for instance the Rancho Grande, near Wells, 100 miles by 200 miles in area. The Central Pacific has tracts as large as 35,000 acres, and there are many other capable of saving from starvation twice as many cattle as there are in the two dried-up valleys of this State.

Amusements.

Chas. A. Gardner's production of "The Prize Winner," that comes to the Opera House on Wednesday April 9th, will not only be complete in a scenic sense but as well artistically. For this tour he carries the best acting comedy ever seen in the country. Among the many features are a newly arrived genuine Tyrolean sextette, that will be seen in their native characteristic dances and heard in their charming mountain songs, glees and choruses.

One realistic scene alone will ever be remembered by theatre goers; that of the startling Alpine Avalanche, where tons of snow and ice can be seen falling down the mountain side, and the faithful St. Bernard dogs rescuing the weary travelers and assisting them in their perilous journey. All of the scenery in the production is carried and can be used on any size stage.

The Surveyor-Generalship.

It is surmised in Democratic circles that General C. W. Irish will be appointed in the place of G. F. Terrett, the present incumbent. The Gazette is informed that the position to which General Irish was appointed in the Interior Department has been abolished and that his term of office will expire in July. E. F. Riley of Humboldt county has been endorsed by the Democratic State Central Committee, and he would probably have been the successful applicant but for the change of program reported to have been brought about by the above mentioned change in the Interior Department.

The Gazette gives this as a rumor which appears to be given credence by the friends of the administration in this State.

C. & C. Business Improving.

The Carson & Colorado R.R. appears to be doing a good business these last few months—in fact it is said that the amount for the last month was greater than any time since the railroad was built. Passenger traffic is good of late, and quite frequently loads of freight are too heavy for the regular trains. Good—we're glad to see it, for the more business the road does the better it is for laymen. Register.

A Horse on Ellis.

Last Summer County Recorder Ellis purchased a horse from Henry Bath, which he exhibited and drove with considerable pride last season. Winter came on and Johnny turned his speedy animal out to pasture. John had the horse brought in a day or two ago. The man who brought the beast from the meadow deposited the equine in a hay yard informing Ellis of the fact.

Johnny treated and feeling pretty good went down to fondle and admire his pet racer. When he arrived at the hay yard, inquiries brought out the information that the hired man saw the horse in question and taking him for an "Injun pony," turned him into the street. Johnny was pretty hot when he heard that his flyer had been taken for an "Injun pony," and started off in search. The last saw of his horse, that quarried was headed up King's street, at a gait which almost made John forget his troubles.

Nevada Lead Ores.

The lead carbonates of Colorado averaged but eight per cent. in that metal and are worked at a profit. In Badger and Seigel districts, in this county, silver lead ores average about 35 per cent. in lead and are not mined because the cost of transportation to smelting works and the price charged for reduction, would consume the entire bullion yield.

The base ore in the North Bonanza mine assays about $15 in silver per ton and 33 per cent. in lead and there is said to be a ledge over forty feet wide of that grade of ore extending downward from the 500 to the 800 level. If a smelting plant was constructed near the mine this ore could be worked at a handsome profit, if the ledge is as wide as represented.—Enterprise.
